

Name Key

Class Period _____

1920's Sensory Gallery Walk

During the 1920s, a glance down Main Street in most American towns revealed a sight that was new in the United States: cars. For the first time, many Americans could afford to buy an automobile. Cars moved faster than the horse-drawn buggies they replaced. In fact, just about everything was moving faster, from assembly lines to music and dancing. Values were changing rapidly, too. Many people were eager for a little fun, and "modern women" stepped out of their traditional roles. This exciting decade became known as the Roaring Twenties.

At each station, READ and complete each line that corresponds with each sense.

Answers will vary

With my ears, I heard...

- (Station 1) Vacuum cleaner
- (Station 4) People buying on margin
- (Station 5) Writers & Artists
- (Station 6) Jazz Music
- (Station 8) Radio

With my eyes, I saw...

- (Station 2) Women Voting
- (Station 3) People buying on credit
- (Station 5) Harlem Renaissance
- (Station 7) illegal clubs
- (Station 8) Movies

With my nose, I smelled...

- (Station 1) automobile smoke
- (Station 2) tobacco smoke

With my mouth, I tasted...

- (Station 7) illegal Alcohol

With my hands, I held...

- (Station 1) Sears Catalog
- (Station 4) Stocks
- (Station 8) books & magazines

With my heart, I felt ...

- (Station 2) Freedom to work, vote, fashion
- (Station 3) Excited to buy things
- (Station 6) Enjoyment in music
- (Station 8) happy to have more leisure time

